

Welcome Home, Dreamers!

The council of Magus Island and the Departments of Mind and Planar Studies are happy to see you safely returned from your unexpected journey. I am sure you are disoriented and have a lot of questions, so we have written this handy brochure to bring you up to speed for the goings on of the last ~~2~~ ~~6~~ ~~9~~ ~~12~~ ~~18~~ 25 months!

Q: What happened?

A: An event we have colloquially called "The Sleeping Sickness" emerged from unknown sources in Blusterwind 3920, spreading through the standing stones that are dotted all across this continent. A small percentage of people near said stone circles were transported into the Plane of Dreams, leaving behind a spectral image of themselves asleep where they stood. Attempted interactions with these images (physical, metaphysical, or otherwise) yielded no response.

Q: I was asleep the whole time?

A: Yes, as far as we can tell. Your body, though, was not present. We believe your mind and body were somehow brought into the Plane of Dreams.

Q: Are there any side effects?

A: Possible side effects may include unclear memory, difficulty with grounded logic, distorted perception of time, and drowsiness. Additional or prolonged side effects should be reported to your local Magus Island field representative.

Q: Where am I?

A: This is the Research Center in the southeastern hills of Estrados, located near a set of fairly isolated standing stones. The stones will open their normal teleportation gate very soon and you will be able to return to your place of origin.

Q: What happened in <Insert Place Here> since I was gone?

A: We obviously can't answer every possible iteration of this question, so instead we will try to go over some of the more broad events that may impact you:

There have been no major wars in the last two years. In fact, many government representatives were brought to peace talks in light of the Sleeping Sickness so that efforts could be focused on solving this problem.

There have not been any major developments in regards to global travel or communication.

The tensions between the governments of Krushkov and Fujian have been largely settled, and travel and trade between the Sarov Prefecture of Fujian and the Princedoms of Krushkov have resumed.

The planar disturbance issue in Eastern Novarum have been largely kept at bay, thanks to the generous funding of the Duke of Voltara and the hiring of mercenary forces, as well as other alliances of convenience.

Magus Island and the Departments of Mind and Planar Studies are happy to see you all returned safe, and any donations you wish to make to further research into the circumstances of this issue, and the prevention of similar events, can be made to your local Magus Island field representative.
